

Arbitration Looming...

At the Pension Trust meeting on March 9, 2009 Union Trustees made a motion to “go green” which ended in a deadlock. “Going green” would have kept the Trust from having to cut pension benefits before; 1- the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (PPA06) rules are written, 2- the market has a chance to rebound, and 3- politicians have a chance to fix the law.

On June 29, 2009, the Union Trustee’s filed paperwork to “go green” and arbitrate the deadlock.
